Congreſs of the United States.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, February 13.

Mr. Tenney from the committee of reviſal and unfiniſhed buſineſs, preſented a bill to revive and make permanent the act to preſcribe and make permanent the act to preſcribe the mode of taking evidence in caſes of conteſted elections for members of the houſe of repreſentatives of the United States and to compel the attendance of witneſſes, which was read the firſt and ſecond time and committed to a committee of the whole houſe on Friday next.

On motion,

Reſolved, That this houſe will attend in the chamber of the Senate, this day at noon for the purpoſe of being preſent at the opening of the counting of the votes for preſident and vice-preſident of the United States: That Mr. Joſeph Clay and Roger Griſwold be appointed tellers, to act jointly with the teller appointed on the part of the Senate to make a liſt of the votes for preſident and vice-preſident of the United States, as they ſhall be declared; that the reſult ſhall be delivered to the preſident of the Senate, who ſhall announce, the ſtate of the vote, which ſhall be entered on the journals;——and if it ſhall appear that a choice hath been made agreeably to the conſtitution, ſuch entry on the journals, ſhall be deemed a ſufficient declaration thereof.

The Speaker laid before the Houſe a letter and report from the ſecretary of the treaſury, the ſecretary of war and the comptroller of the Treaſury, commiſſioner under the act for the relief of the refugees from the Britiſh provinces of Canada and Nova Scotia, which were read and referred to the committee appointed to enquire whether any, and if any, what amendments are neceſſary to the ſeveral acts regulating the grants of land to the refugees from Nova Scotia and Canada.

Mr. Dana, from the committee of Claims, made a report on the petition of William Breck jun. of New Hampſhire, which was referred to a committee of the whole houſe to-morrow.

Mr. Dana, from the ſame committee, made a report on the memorial of Richard Taylor, of Kentucky, which was referred to a committe of the whole Houſe to-morrow.

A meſſage was received from the Preſident of the United States, as follows:

"To the Senate and Houſe of Repreſentatives of the United States."

"In the meſſage to Congreſs at the opening of the preſent ſeſſion, I informed them that treaties had been entered into with the Delaware and Piankeſhaw Indians for the purchaſe of their rights to certain lands on the Ohio. I have ſince received another entered into with the Sacs and Foxes for a portion of country on both ſides of the river Miſſiſſippi; theſe treaties having been adviſed and conſented to by the Senate, have accordingly been ratified; but, as they involve conditions which require legiſlative proviſion, they are now ſubmitted to both branches, for conſideration."

"TH: JEFFERSON"

'Feb. 13, 1805'

The above meſſage, together with the treaties, was referred to the committee of Ways and Means.

On motion,

Reſolved, That the committee of Ways and Means be inſtructed to enquire into the ſalaries and compenſations of the officers of the two Houſes of Congreſs as eſtabliſhed by law, & report ſuch alterations therein as they may deem expedient.

The Houſe according to the order of the day, reſolved itſelf into a committee of the whole Houſe,

Mr. Dawſon in the chair,

On the bill authoriſing the ſecretary at war, to iſſue military land warrants; and after ſome time ſpent therein, the committee roſe and reported the bill without amendment.

The Houſe then proceeded to conſider the ſaid bill, and having made ſome progreſs therein, it was Ordered, That the farther conſideration thereof be poſtponed until to-morrow.

A meſſage was received from the ſenate notifying that at half paſt two the ſenate will be ready to proceed on the trial of Samuel Chaſe.

A petition was preſented from Iſhmael Giddens of Yorktown, Virg. and alſo one from Nathan Putnam. of Daveis, Eſſex county, Maſs. which were ſeverally referred to the committee of claims.

On motion,

Reſolved, That a committee be appointed to join ſuch committee as may be appointed by the Senate, to wait on the Preſident and to notify to him his re-election to the office of Preſident of the U. States.

Ordered, That Mr. Nicholſon, Mr. Gregg and Mr. Varnum, be appointed a committee on the part of this houſe, purſuant to the ſaid reſolution.

The houſe then reſolved itſelf into a committee of the whole Houſe, and attended the trial of Samuel Chaſe, and after ſome time ſpent therein, the committee returned, and Mr. Speaker having reſumed the chair,

Mr. Gregg reported that the committee had attended the ſaid trial, and that a further progreſs had been made therein.

Mr. Varnum reported that the committee had attended the ſaid trial, and that a further progreſs had been made therein. Adjourned.

Thurſday, February 14.

Mr. George Clinton, jun. from New-York, after being ſworn, took his ſeat in the Houſe.

The Speaker laid before the Houſe a letter from the Secretary of State, accompanied by an abſtract of all the evidences of title to land claimed under any act or pretended act of the ſtate of Georgia, paſſed or pretended to be paſſed, in the years 1789 and 1795, recorded in his office, ſpecifying the dates of the inſtruments, the names of the parties, the quantity of land with the ſpecies of warranty and any proviſo or condition that may be annexed, which were ordered to be printed.

A meſſage was received from the Senate notifying that at 12 o'clock the Senate will be ready to proceed on the trial of Samuel Chaſe and that in future the trial will commence at 10 o'clock; alſo, that they have agreed to the reſolution of this Houſe for the appointment of a committee to enquire what meaſures are neceſſary for the accommodation of the Preſident of the U. States for the term commencing on the 4th of March next, and that they had appointed a committee for that purpoſe.

The Houſe then reſolved itſelf into a committee of the whole, and attended the trial of Samuel Chaſe, and after ſometime ſpent therein, the committee returned and Mr. Speaker having reſumed the chair,

Mr. Varnum reported that the committee had attended the ſaid trial, and that a further progreſs had been made therein.

Adjourned.

FRIDAY, February 15.

The Houſe reſolved itſelf into a committee of the whole, and attended the trial of Samuel Chaſe, and after ſome time ſpent therein, the committee returned, and Mr Speaker having reſumed the chair.

Mr. Varnum reported that the committee had attended the ſaid trial, and that a further progreſs had been made therein.

The Speaker laid before the houſe, a letter from the Secretary at War, accompanied by ſundry documents relative to the ſituation of the public buildings on the Schuylkill, near Philadelphia, and the probable expenſe of finiſhing the ſame, &c. and alſo a ſtatement of the number of the officers and privates in the actual ſervice of the United States during the year 1803 and 1804, with the names of the poſts where they were ſtationed, &c. and which were read and ordered to lie on the table.

A meſſage was received from the Senate, notifying that they have paſſed the bill making appropriations for the ſupport of government for the year 1805, with amendments.

Mr. J Randolph reported a bill making an appropriation for the payment of witneſſes ſummoned on the part of the United States in ſupport of the impeachment of Samuel Chaſe, which was read the firſt and ſecond time and committed to a committee of the whole houſe immediately.

The houſe accordingly reſolved itſelf into a committee of the whole.

Mr. Dawſon in the chair,

And after ſome time ſpent therein, the committee roſe and reported the bill with amendments, which were taken into conſideration and concurred in by the houſe.

Ordered, that it be engroſſed for a third reading to-morrow.

The Speaker laid before the houſe a letter and report from the ſecretary of the Treaſury, on the petition of John M'Fadon and Francis Johonnot.

Referred to the committee of claims.

Alſo, a letter, accompanyed with an annual ſtatement of the diſtrict tonnage of the United States on the 31ſt of December, 1803, together with an explanatory letter from the Regiſter of the Treaſury.

Ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Crowninſhield from the committee of commerce and manufactures, reported a bill for the relief of Robert Patton & Co. and others, which was read the firſt and ſecond time and committed to a committee of the whole Houſe to-morrow.

Mr. Crowninſhield from the ſame committee, made a report on the memorial of Stephen Kingſton, of the city of Philadelphia.

Ordered to lie on the table.

The Houſe proceeded to the conſideration of the amendment ſo propoſed by the Senate to the bill making appropriations for the ſupport of government for the year 1805, when

The bill, with the amendments, was ordered to be referred to the committee of Ways and Means.

Adjourned to half paſt nine to-morrow.

SATURDAY, February 16.

The houſe reſolved itſelf into a committee of the whole, and attended the trial of Samuel Chaſe, and after ſome time ſpent therein, the committee returned, and Mr. Speaker having reſumed the chair,

Mr. Gregg reported, that the committee had attended the ſaid trial, and that a farther progreſs had been made therein.

The engroſſed bill making an appropriation for the payment of witneſſes ſummoned on the part of the United States, to attend the impeachment of Samuel Chaſe, was read the third time and paſſed.

Petitions were preſented from William Hatling, of Hillſboro' county, New Hampſhire, John Henry Van Billon, a native of Germany, and John Hardyman, of Charles city, (Vir.) which were ſeverally referred to the Committee of Claims.

A petition was preſented from ſundry inhabitants of the ſtate of Pennſylvania, praying the eſtabliſhment of a poſt-road from New Hope, in Buck's county, through Doyle's town, &c. to Lancaſter, and alſo,

CHARLESTON, (S. C.) Feb. 5.

A few days ſince it was mentioned in the public papers, that the legiſlature of Ohio had granted leave for a bill to be introduced for changing the names of the counties of Adams, Hamilton and Roſs.

Thoſe legiſlators who ſit down to change ſuch names of counties to ſome others, probably to Beelzebub, Bonaparte, and Robeſpierre, have found out an office better fitted for their hearts and heads than making good laws. Thoſe citizens of the ſwamps and ſtatesmen of the ſcalping knife, had better croſs the mountains, and go to ſome ſchool for grown perſons; there they will ſtand a chance of learning that there are ſuch things in the world as hiſtories and national records; and that, unleſs they can contrive to burn all the libraries in America and Europe, their impotent malice can no more expunge the glories of Hamilton and Adams from the annals of the world, than a drop of the Crocodile tears once shed by their lord and master over the grave of Washington, could melt away a mountain of adamant. Poor wretches! they have just intellect enough to betray their malice, but not wit enough to give it effect. Columbus lives to everlasting fame by his deeds, while that of Americus Vespusius is only kept alive, like a spark under the ashes, by the misnomer of America, which, in justice, ought to be called Columbia. The fame of the former was built on other grounds than the naming of a place.

Those legislators may not, however, be without an object; they may have got a hint to begin a series of changes, meditated by our ruling faction, in humble imitation of the French jacobin Usurpers, by whom "Nothing, no, nothing, was left unchange!" The offices being exhausted, for means to shew their malice, they now parvey for their turpitude in the names of places. The savages of the Ohio have roused the game, and the war-whoop will soon reach the Atlantic, where Americans may be assured not a town will be left bearing the name of Washington. Mr. Eppes, the president's son-in-law, wants to have the territory of Columbia receded to Maryland and Virginia: this is circumstance coincident.

In one respect they are right: they take from the rich what the rich do not want, and give it to the poor indeed. A Jefferson's fame, like that of Americus, may be bolstered up for a while by the name of a place, but the fame of a Washington, a Hamilton, or an Adams, like that of Columbus, will live till, to use the beautiful idea of Ben Johnson, Time shall throw a dart at Death.

——Sidney's Sister—Pembroke's mother,
Death, e'er thou hast struck another
Fair and learned and good as she,
Time shall throw a dart at thee.

NEW LONDON, Feb. 13.

An horrid act of barbarity, we are informed, was perpetrated last week, in Suffield. A boy about twelve years old, living with an indigent family, who were ill-ly provided with beds, solicited permission, (the night being extremely cold) to sleep by the fire on the ground floor. This however, was refused him by the master of the house, who on the boy's repeating the request, with his horse whip drove him into a cold garret, where his only covering was a few rags; and in that situation left him to spend the night. The cries of the boy, however, soon reached his ear; he returned to the garret, and there beat and mangled him, till all complaints were effectually silenced. The next morning the boy was found apparantly lifeless; all the lower part of his body frozen; an unequalled object of misery! Our informant adds, there is no doubt that the boy, before this, is dead.

NEW-YORK, February 16.

Early in the American war David Bushnel, A. M. of Saybrook, invented a machine for submarine navigation, altogether different from any thing hitherto devised by the art of man. This machine was so constructed as that it could be rowed horizontally, at any given depth, under water, and could be raised or depressed at pleasure. To this machine, called the American Turtle, was attached a magazine of powder, which was intended to be fastened under the bottom of a ship with a driving screw, in such a manner as that the same stroke which disengaged it from the machine should put the internal clock work in motion. This being done, the ordinary operation of a gunlock, at the distance of half an hour, or any fixed time, would cause the powder to explode, and leave the effects to the common laws of nature.—The simplicity, yet combination, discovered in the mechanism of this wonderful machine, have been acknowledged by those skilled in physics, and particularly hydraulics, to be not less ingenious than novel. Mr. Bishnel invented several other curious machines for the annoyance of the British shipping, but from accidents, not militating against the philosophical principles on which their success depended, they but partially succeeded. He destroyed a vessel in the charge of Commodore Symonds. One of his kegs also demolished a vessel near the Long Island shore. About Christmas, 1777, he committed to the Delaware river a number of kegs, destined to fall among the British fleet at Philadelphia; but his squadron of kegs having been separated and retarded by the ice, demolished but a single boat. This catasprophe, however, produced an alarm, unprecedented in its nature and degree; which has been so happily described by the Hon. Francis Hopkinson, in a song stiled, "The Battle of the Kegs, that the event it celebrates will not be forgotten so long as mankind shall continue to be delighted with works of humour and taste.

BATIMORE February 18.

Extract of a letter from the city of Washington, dated, Feb. 17.

'The trial of the impeachment of judge Chase is proceeding. The Senate determined on Thursday to open the court on Friday morning one hour earlier than before, but as Mr. Randolph did not appear in his place at the time appointed, the commencement of the trial was delayed until 11 o'clock at the request of the other managers, all of whom were present, but were unwilling to proceed in his absence. A motion to proceed was made twice and carried in the last instance.

'Some time after Mr. Randolph appeared booted and spurred, and took his seat among the managers.

'The evidence on the part of the respondent, was opened on Friday by Mr. Harper, one of judge Chase's counsel—It is believed it will be closed on Tuesday next: The judge's counsel deserve much praise for the candor and liberality they have exhibited during the whole course of the trial. They have not cavilled in any instance at deviations from the strictest rules of evidence, but have appeared willing that every circumstance at all connected with the questions in dispute, should be disclosed, wisely confiding the whole to the wisdom & discernment of the honorable body who are to pass in judgment upon them. The vice president conducts the proceedings with great decorum, promptness and partiality, in which he is supported by the members of the Senate generally, whose final decision will undoubtedly be the result of a cool, unbiassed, and deliberate judgment upon the whole of the case, alike free from political hatred and favoritism. The general sentiment here even among the political adversaries of the judge, is that he will be honorably acquitted. The candor and unsuspecting frankness of his character may have some times led him into indiscreet expressions and actions, but every imputatation of corrupt intention is now entirely removed; the charges are gradually vanishing away before the evidence. It is to be lamented that a man in his high official station, whose talents (as has been justly said) render him an ornament to his country, in whose service he is now grown grey—it is truly to be lamented that such a man, even by indiscretion or levity, should be brought to the bar of his country to answer for high crimes and misdemeanors: but let those who harshly condemn him ask their own breasts whether they could undergo the ordeal to which his character has been subjected? Whether nothing worse than levity and indiscretion might be found by ransacking the private confidential jocular conversations for five years or more past?

MARRIED last evening, by the Rev. Dr. Muir, Mr. MOSES JANNEY, of this town, to Mrs. JUDITH LAWRENCE, formerly of the state of Massachusetts.

COMMUNICATION.

Yesterday evening was married, by the Rev. Mr. Davis, Gideon Pearce, Esq. of Maryland, to Miss Julia Dick, the amiable daughter of E. C. Dick, Esq. mayor of this town.

The votes of the Electors of President and Vice-President were counted on Wednesday the 13th inst. in the Senate, the house of representatives attending, and were declared as follow:

President—	THOMAS JEFFERSON,	162
	C. C. PINCKNEY,	14
Vice-President—	GEORGE CLINTON,	162
	RUFUS KING,	14

Letters from Liverpool, of the 6th Dec. state, that in consequence of receiving accounts of the damage done to the Cotton crops in S. Carolina and Georgia, by the gale in September last, Cotton had risen there, & was in considerable demand. Sea Island was from 2s 4. to 2s 10. and one parcel of very fine sold at 3s 3. Short staple was at 1s 6. to 1s 7.

The dreadful malady with which Gibraltar was lately afflicted (according to a private letter) was introduced by means of about twenty Spaniards getting in undiscovered by the guards. They took up their residence in some tenements on the premises of Mr. Wm. Boyd, and soon after twelve of them died, and the proprietor of the premises and his wife shared the same fate. It was soon ascertained that they were part of the people who had, in a fit of desperation, forced their way through a cordon of troops placed round Malaga, to prevent the introduction of the disorder into other parts of the country.

A writer in a paper printed at Lexington, Virginia, deploring the unhappy divisions which have existed in the house of delegates of that state, respecting the employment of a chaplain, recommends that the duty of that situation should be assigned to the speaker of the house, and the members, in rotation; and thinks, that man must be poorly qualified for a representative, who cannot make one or two prayers in a session.

[Freeman's Journal.]

We are informed that a Mr. Henry Goodall, of Chatham, an aged man, under the care of the town, being a little insane, was chained to the floor of the house in which he was kept, on the night of the 5th inst. and in that situation froze to death!

BEAR.—On Saturday the ninth instant was discovered by the passengers in the stage from New York to Newark, at a small distance from the Hackensack bridge a Bear of an enormous size; a circumstance which seldom happens in a country so well populated as this, and is truly indicative of the intenseness of the winter in our northern settlements.

Adjourned till Thursday, 9 1-2 o'clock.

From the WASHINGTON FEDERALIST, of February 20.

Yesterday the examination of the testimony was finished in the High Court of Impeachment. The pleadings will commence this day.

On Friday last we had the pleasure to see our harbour opened and cleared of ice, after having been closed for these two months.

In the afternoon of Monday last, between three and four o'clock, the inhabitants of this town were exceedingly alarmed by the cry of fire. One of the houses adjoining the Union Tavern, and occupied by Mr. M'Laughlin for the accommodation of part of his numerous boarders, was discovered to be enveloped in smoke, and in a short time the flames burst through the roof and windows, threatening destruction and ruin to the whole square.—Happily, however through the timely, vigorous and well directed exertions of the citizens, who appeared to vie with each other in rendering every assistance to their unfortunate and suffering fellow citizen, the fire was entirely extinguished; but not before part of the two buildings between the Union and Mr. Rigg's brick house, had been consumed and pulled down. The damage sustained cannot, in our opinion, be overrated at 3000 dollars.

The terror and dismay occasioned by this distressing event, can be more easily imagined than described. We feel pleasure in recording the meritorious services of our fellow-citizens from Washington, who hastened from the city with a promptitude and alacrity that calls for our highest admiration and sincerest praise.

We regret too that several of the members of congress, and their ladies, were driven from their comfortable habitations. The loss sustained by them, we expect, was considerable, for the confusion and hurry in removing was very great.

On an occasion like the present, we beg leave to suggest the propriety and importance of forming and establishing Fire Companies in Washington and George-Town, for although we cheerfully allow every praise to those who assisted, yet we feel sensible that by a well organized Company, the community would experience signal advantage from their uniform and persevering efforts in any similar event.

We understand that the celebration of the anniversary of our illustrious Washington, is frustrated by this unexpected event, almost every article of luxury & elegance prepared for the occasion having been destroyed.
